FINANCIAL AND COMMERC

SUNDAY, O st. 7, 1861. ports of produce and m rchandise were considerably heavier. The short ment of specie was about the same as that of position in the corresponding week last year. The fall importing trade is now nearly over, and we are safe in saying that the tables of the year's imports at t'als port will show a more moderate and conservative movement than that of 1859. On the other hand, the foreign demand for Americ an produce does not slacken, and the exports of produce continue unusually large. It is P etty certain new that New York will export, in the year 1860, more produce and merchandise than was, ever shipped from this port before in a single ; jear. The tables of the foreign trade of the port for the week are as follows :--For the Week. Total for the week $2.658.810 4,115,604 3,207,360 executly reported 110 886,842 187,496,838 179,761,076 Prace January 1. $113 539,662 191 612,542 183,048,430

Since January 1. $45,283,663 49,953,721 69,757,793

Since January 1. $20,509 237 59 244,958 41,247,497 It is not probable that there will be much change in the bank statement of to-morrow, so far as specie is concerned. The loss by export since the ast report was made up, including the shipment of Saturday, 29th ult., and exclusive of that of yesterday, has been less than $700,000, against which some gold has come in from the interior. The last bank average of specie was $20,177,086, an ingrease of $1,188,483 from the week previous; at the corresponding date last year the banks showed a specie average of $19,493,144. The Sub-Treasury lance continues to decline slowly. It stood yes terday evening at $4,991,575, against $5,223,432 at the close of last week, and $1,714,078 at the corresponding date last year. The Northern Light which arrived last night-from Aspinwall, brought no specie, having failed to connect with the eteamer on the Pacific side, Judging from the movement of money and the statements up to-morrow will show a further decrease of some of the banks, the average to be made loans. The early receipts of cotton, together with the crop movement in the West, appear to be reducing the bank deposits at an unn ually rapid rate. Last week, however, the state ment showed a decrease of loans, compared with an increase of specie and deposits; so that, at the beginning of the week, some of the banks must have felt strong enough to increase their line. The $124,849,426—a decrease of $953,218 from the week previous, but still a considerable increase on the loans average of the corresponding date last year, which was $117,211,627. Until yesterday and the previous afternoon the money market was active all last week, at pretty full rates. Various minor occurrences created some temporary uneasiness among lenders, and for two or three days it was quite difficult to borrow at the rates previously current. The week closed, however, on an easy market again, with the supplies rather in excess of the demand, at the following quotations:-Call loans, 6 a 7 per cent; short first class paper, 64 a 7; long paper, strictly first class, fair to good paper, 8 a 9; names not generally known, 10 a 12, &c., &c. The fears of a tight money market this fall appear to have been generaily dispelled by the actual course of events. The banks have now curtailed six millions of dollars in as many weeks, and yet money is just as abundant as it was. The specie reserve has run down to what promises to be its lowest point for the season; imports, instead of increasing over last year, as was at one time expected, show marked decrease. Neither in the commercial nor the financial world are there such evidences of expansion visible as would be likely to create a monetary crisis. Some people anticipate increased inquiry for money at lose of the month, in consequence of the award of the new government loan-$10,000,000 of which are to be distributed on the 22d instant. It must be borne in mind, however, that none of the awards of government loans which we have witthe effect of convulsing the market. The reason is very simple. The government does not borrow until it requires the money; as fast as it is received it is disbursed. We will do Mr. Cobb the justice to admit that he has never made the mistake of accumulating a heavy balance in the Sub-Treasury here; he never asks the banks for gold until he cannot help himself. With regard to the award of the 22d, we venture to say that the ten millions will not be two weeks out of the banks. On or about the lat of November a large amount of Treasury notes mature: other payments must be made about the same time; so that, notwithstanding the loan it is not likely Mr. Cobb will face Congress with much more money than he has at present.

The foreign exchange market gave way altogether last week. At the close the best bankers' bills were offered at 1004 for sterling, and 5,164 for francs. Higher rates than these were asked by such ouses as Messra Belmont and Brown's; but city bills of undoubted character, and Southern bank bills with city endorsement, were sold at the rates we mention. The decline was due partly to the slackened inquiry from importers, who have paid up their debt to Europe earlier than usual, and partly to the large amount of produce and cotton bills which are coming on the market at low rates Bankers are buying excellent mercantile bills at 1084 a 4. and can make more money by selling their own exchange at 1002, and covering with these mercantile bills, than they did, as a general rule, this summer by shipping specie. At this date last year exchange on London was one per cent higher than it is, and we were shipping three times as much gold as we are; so much difference is cansed by the increased shipments of produce, and the diminished imports of foreign goods,

The following table will show the movement of the stock market during the past week and month:-chigan Cen. there guar. a cis Cen... folianit. .

The eye at of the week in stock circles was the passage of the Rock Island dividend by the direc tors of that company. This occurrence, which was quite un expected by stockholders and the public, and was accompanied by a variety of rather disreputable circumstances, threw a wet blanket on speculation, and tended for the time to create distrust in all railroad securities. The company have made no public reply to the imputations east upon the honor of the Board. We have seen a letter however, to which the President states that it will be necessary to pass the dividend in conse queace of the decline in freight traffic, and the ingreased expense of certain works of construction. With regard to the former reason, a must of Mr. Farcams's experience must surely

IAL. be aware that, with the enormous harvest now in the barns of the Illinois and lowa farmers, no decline in freight business can possibly be permanent, and that if from accidental causes the road received less than was expected one week, it would take more than was anticipated in some subsequent week. The stuff, everybody knows, must come to market so oner or later. As to the increased cost of construction, we believe that this was in direct violation of a bylaw of the company which forbids the officers spending money on construction without permission of the Executive Com-mittee. We are not inclined to think that the shareholders in the Rock Island road will be satisfied with Mr. Farnam's explanation. The road had earned over three per cent, and they were entitled to it. If money was needed for construction, why were not the $90,000 of Rock Island stock held by the company turned into money? What is the meaning of an investment of $242,000 in the sinking fund? We confess that the whole transaction wears a most suspicious look, and when the stockholders meet next spring for the election of officers, some of them are likely to express their views about it in a way which may not be palatable to the directors. The present Board consists of Thos. C. Durant, New York; Francis H. Tows, do.; David Dows, do: Charles W. Durant, do.; E. W. Dunham, do.; William H. Macy, do.; John B. Jervis, Rome, New York; Henry Farnam, Chicago, Il.; Norman B. Judd, do.; John F. Traey, do.; Robert A. Forsyth, Newburg, N. Y.; Theodore S. Faxton, Utica, N. Y., and Ebenezer Cook, Davenport, Iowa. Of these Mr. Thomas C. Durant was the only one who voted to give the stockholders the money they had earned. Mr. David Dows was not present at the meeting.

The uncasiness created in this Rock Island affair affected all securities for a time, and caused an un-reasoning panic on the Stock Exchange. All Western shares fell 4 a 5 per cent, and even the Central and Eric declined almost as much. This decline was followed, as was natural, by a reaction, and the week closed on an unsettled market. The indications are that there is a stronger and more determined bear party in the Stock Exchange at the present time than we have seen for many months, and that we are going to witness, this fall and winter, a sharper contest than Wall street has known

The arguments of the bears are, first, the political uncertainties of the day. If Mr. Lincoln should be elected President, it is generally supposed that some trouble will follow at the South. The bears argue that this will affect stocks and induce people to sell out their Northern and Western railway shares. Some of them go so far as to predict civil war and an actual attempt to dissolve the Union. Again, they argue that the money market is uncertainthat money is growing steadily dearer from month to month, and that in November it will be very scarce. Again, they say that the grain-bearing reads are making no money, all their receipts being absorbed by their working expenses. Finally, they assert that the present prices of stocks are purely the work of speculation, that there is no real buying for investment, and that some day the bubble will burst, and everything will fall ten or twenty per cent. These, so far as we can gather them, are the arguments on which the bears rest their

On the other hand, the bulls apprehend no danger from the possible success of Mr. Lincoln. It might affect the trade of parts of the South, and that of Northern houses trading with the South. A disturbance in South Carolina would probably burt the credit of Charleston houses and of their correspondents here. But it is not believed that it would make any difference to Northern houses or Northern enterprises. As to a dissolution of the Union, no one, except the bears, seems seriously to approhend that contingency. Again, the bulls feel confident that the money market is going to be easy for some time to come; they argue that if money is easy after a bank contraction of six millions, and after the first week in October, there need be no apprehension regarding the period which witnesses the cessation of specie shipments and the decline of foreign imports. With regard to the business of the Western roads, the bulls say they see, in practical results, reason to believe that increased traffic insures increased profit. It is very true that roads like the Galena and Rock Island have had less to divide this year than they had before the crisis. But it must be remembered that the passenger business this year has been the worst the roads have ever known. The poverty of the West this spring and summer-caused by a succession of bad harvests and the prostration of business, consequent upon the crisis of 1857-was so awards of government loans which we have wit-nessed within the past two or three years have had to travel. Hence it is that, notwithstanding the very heavy freighting business which the roads are doing at present, and which some of them have been doing for several months, their profits are small, compared with those which they used to make before the crisis. Now, the bulls argue that, this winter and next spring, passenger traffic will revive on the strength of the profits of the fine crop of this year, and that the railway receipts will consequently probably show, in 1861, a larger ratio of increase over 1860 than 1860 shows over 1859. In the meantime there are some practical facts which the balls find it diffic reconcile with the theory that the increased traffic from freight is not profitable. The Rock Island and Galena-without passenger traffic-both show a fair dividend for their stockholders; the former ought to have paid six per cent this year. The Bline's Central is this year earning money enough to pay the interest on its debt, leaving the income from its lands untonshed. The Michigan Central is paying off its funded, the Michigan Southern its floating debt. The floating debt of the Toledo, now reduced to about $250,000, will probably be paid off in full before 1st January. The Trie is paying its overdue coupons. Quite a number of roads, which were considered broken and bankrupt, are steadily recovering, and in one shape or another are about to try to regain public confidence. Such are the Cleveland and Pittsburg, the Mississippi and Milwankee, the old La Crosse, the Chicago and Northwestern, &c., &c. These facts, the bulls say, they find it difficult to reconcile with the theory that the roads are making no money. and no progress towards regaining public confi

We do not undertake, of course, to decide between these opinions; of their relative soundness each person must judge for himself. But of the general prosperity and bright prospects of the whole country, including the West, no one who is able to judge can have any doubt.

We learn that Judge Leonard on Saturday pos poned the appointment of Mr. Augustine Smith as receiver of the Artisans' Bank till Thursday next. In the meantime, a meeting of the directors of the bank will be held to-morrow morning, and of stockholders to-morrow afternoon, with a view to consuit upon the feasibility of extricating the bank from its present embarrassments, without letting it go into the hands of a receiver. It is understood that the firm of Platt Brothers, who are wealthy, would have undertaken to carry the bank through before, but forthe impossibility of securing certain conditions on which they insisted.
